“Manav Rachna”

Manav Rachna carries forward the mantle of excellence and professionalism with the philosophy of Manav Rachna.

“Vidyantariksha”

This is a conjunction of the words ‘vidya’ and ‘antariksha’. “Vidya means knowledge, information, the basis of creativity and innovation. It is the foundation of technology and envisages the future. “Antariksha means ‘the sky’, the space which we belong to or exist. It can be broken into ‘antar’ and ‘ikshan’ which means inner vision. Hence the combination, the core promise of Manav Rachna becomes “the reality of inner vision or root of all knowledge”.

2.3 Teaching Learning Process

Learning experiences are improved by the use of student-centered strategies like experiential learning, participatory learning, and problem-solving procedures. When it comes to designing the curriculum, nowadays the universities are highly flexible. The curricula designed for the various programmes at MRU ensures that students are fundamentally sound, capable of applying the concepts in real-world situations, and able to examine the results of such application. Every course in Engineering and Scientific programmes must include a lab component. Workshop courses are added every semester, substantially enhancing practical skills. Engineers from the industry help deliver some of the engineering programmes. The curriculum created in this way is modern and capable of satisfying industry demands. Additionally, the teaching and learning approaches used complete and enhance the Curriculum.

Classes are taught using pedagogies including cooperative learning, active learning, and collaborative learning. With the assistance of Knowledge Partner, Xebia, the university has developed the idea of Agile Classrooms for the delivery through various methods. The first campus in India with flexible classrooms is Manav Rachna University. The classroom setting has been mapped in relation to agile practices used in industry. By continuously monitoring their progress on the visual boards, these uniquely built classrooms allow students to work in teams with faculty to enhance evaluation techniques and student performance in both soft skills and technical skills. To solve the shortcomings of conventional methods and track the development of the courses and students' performance, a variety of Agile data visualisation techniques are used.

These various pedagogies encourage collaboration among students in order to achieve a common objective, enhance peer communication, and help students gain the superior skills needed by business.

2.3.1 School of Education and Humanities

The Economics of Valentines

Session Expert: Ms. Kriti Dagar

Activity: Keeping in view the popularity of Valentines among students, an interesting activity was organised to portray the dynamics of the money market through economic tools such as the free market, wealth creation, and the marginal benefit-marginal cost approach.

The demand-supply market activities of the producers and consumers during valentine's week were taught to students reflecting the deadweight loss of valentine's day purchases.

The outcome of the activity was that it helped students understand the market approach to money creation by producers rather than the boring bookish teaching method. And the perks included distribution of chocolates as a token of love.

Subject: Education in Contemporary India

Faculty: Ms Ridhi Khanna

Activity: Types of Schools

Through collaborating learning, the topic of types of schools was taught. Under this, the learners were divided into groups of 4-5. Each group representative has to pick one chit in which a type of school was written. Each group was given a 10 minutes' duration to develop content on respective schools and relevant questions attached to it. After preparation of content and questions, each group needs to present the topic and have to ask relevant questions from the audience on the basis of content shared with them. A matrix was developed beforehand and scoring was given for every correct answer to the group. Through this activity, a major topic related to specific schools was covered; learners were actively involved, healthy competition prevailed. At the end of the activity total scoring was given and ranking of the group is done which brings a sense of accomplishment to learners belonging to higher rank and motivation to do well to learners belonging to lower rank.

The types of school are as follows

- ❖ Public Schools
- ❖ Private Schools
- ❖ Boarding Schools
- ❖ CBSE and ICSE Schools
- ❖ Magnet schools
- ❖ Charter schools
- ❖ Montessori Schools
- ❖ Religious Schools

- ❖ IB and CIE Board School
- ❖ Special Schools
- ❖ Kindergarten School

In continuation of activity, the video clips are shown of different school systems like Montessori School, Magnet School, Private School, Public School, Religious School, Boarding School, etc to provide concept clarity and interest based learning. A reflection exercise and critique about different school cultures is provided through these videos.

2.3.2 School of Engineering

ME DEPARTMENT

ROBOTICS-PBL Mode

In this subject we used a project-based learning approach to teach robotics basics to undergraduate B. Tech-SMA Students. The course coverage includes basic electronics, robot construction and programming using arduino. Students developed and tested a robot prototype. The project was evaluated using a questionnaire. The evaluation result shows that students developed skills in circuit design, problem-solving and robot development for addressing real world problems and team work. The students had challenges of using limited resources for robot detailed design and construction. The results indicate that robotics education through project-based learning motivates students to learn and implement product design that addresses real world problems.

Kits in classroom learning are valuable in classrooms and they help to attain the following:

- 1) Hand-on learning and engagement: Students of all ages enjoy hand-on construction activities that involve structure, motion, sensors, programming, and manipulation; these bring opportunities for them to find something that suits their particular interests.
- 2) Problem solving and training: Robotics enables students to become problem solvers as they develop robots that have well defined tasks to accomplish before the actual construction of the robot begins.
- 3) The inclusion of computer programming allows for deeper understanding into issues such as remote sensing, control, and autonomous functioning.

- School of Law has an Advisory Board which boasts of Former Chief Justice of India, Former Supreme and High Court Judges, ASG, Former Law Secretary to Ministry of Law and Justice, Senior Advocates, IAS officers and other legal luminaries as its eminent members.

- Every programme includes required industrial training and internships for the students' employability-focused courses.
- Students are exposed to research at the UG level, and faculty members mentor them as they produce review papers, articles, and publish or present their work in conferences and publications.
- To give students enough exposure to their respective fields, periodic industrial visits are organised to research labs, courts, schools, and hospitals. Because the university uses a choice-based credit system, each programme can include open electives, programme electives, and MOOC courses that can earn academic credits.
- For first-year B.Tech students to work on cross-disciplinary projects from the first year, Engineering Exploration is introduced.
- Students get the chance to receive training in the newest technology and software thanks to a centre of excellence's engagement with business.
- In addition to being mentored by professionals from industry to work on the issue statements provided by the industry, students are encouraged to complete minor projects and major projects in industries.
- Training is provided for competitive tests and higher education. GATE/CAT/GRE/NET/Judiciary.
- Most technical courses have tutorial sessions to hone students' problem-solving abilities.
- Slow learners are given special classes.
- Mentoring and teacher-guardian relationships help students recognise their strengths, choose the appropriate electives, and advance along the professional path.
- To improve comprehension, laboratories are furnished with scaled-down models that are realistic and illustrative charts.
- The MHRD-established Innovation & Incubation Centre offers students the chance to learn through experimenting.
- According to the 2019 National Policy of Innovation, the university has a policy for the promotion of innovation and entrepreneurship with unique measures.
- Students are inspired to engage in project work that is socially important.
- Every department hosts expert lectures, workshops, and alumni interactions once a semester to introduce students to the most recent developments in the field.

- Competitions, conferences, workshops, and seminars at the state, national, and worldwide levels are sponsored for students.
- Weekly tests, quizzes, extemporaneous presentations, group discussions, and assignments serve as the primary means of continuous assessment. Open book exams and project-based learning evaluations are encouraged for faculty members.
- To close the gaps between the dissemination of knowledge and learning, student feedback, student satisfaction surveys, and course exit feedback are carried out.

a) First position	25% of Tuition Fee or Rs.25,000/- whichever is less
b) Second Position	15% of Tuition Fee or Rs.15,000/- whichever is less
c)Third Position	10% of Tuition Fee or Rs.10,000/- whichever is less

The following are the guidelines for granting these Merit Scholarships:

Any programme must have strength of 90 or more in the semester exam to qualify for first, second and third position scholarship, otherwise only a solitary topper shall be given a solitary first position scholarship.

If the strength of a course is 10 or less no scholarship will be awarded for that course.

A student shall be eligible to benefit from tuition fee waiver only from one source only.

2.6.4 Special Scholarship Awarded

a) Scholarship to Ph.D. Students: Faculty members working with MREI for three or more years' duration are entitled for a scholarship while they enroll for their career enhancement and join the doctoral program. CHAPTER: 3

RESEARCH DEVELOPMENT AND INNOVATIONS

3.1 Research, Publications and Projects

Research is a systematic inquiry aimed at acquiring new knowledge, exploring uncharted territories, and expanding the boundaries of human understanding. It encompasses a wide range of disciplines, including Sciences, Humanities, Engineering, and Technology. As researchers, we at Manav Rachna are seeking answers to questions of great interest to us. Our research problems are multidisciplinary, covering multiple domains creating an impact on society. Through rigorous methodologies, researchers investigate phenomena, analyze data, and draw conclusions to generate new insights. Research serves as the foundation for innovation by providing a solid understanding of existing knowledge and identifying gaps and areas of improvement. University facilitates research through “Research Clusters” in different disciplines serving as the specialized groups. Various ‘Centers of Excellence’ have been developed in collaboration with Industry, such as: Solar Energy Applications, Atmospheric and environmental sciences, Clean Water Technology, Green Chemistry, Corrosion Science, Communication Technology, Integrated System Design, Soft Computing, Business Process Modeling and Machine Learning.

Office of Dean Research propels and promotes research within various faculties of MRU by providing necessary support for designing and creating new products and conducting experiments, providing advanced training to its faculty members in specialized fields. The Research Integrated UG Program further enhances research acumen in undergraduate students, under mentorship of faculty members generating research papers in Conferences and journals of high repute.

This brigade will spread the message and connect to the society and they would also expand the network of other youth outside Manav Rachna.

Peace champions to be an instrument of peace

“If you want peace, be peace.”

Youth power should be harnessed by indulging in art and culture related pursuits to develop a peaceful mind to be an instrument of Peace. Peace is not confined to meditation or breathing techniques. People experience a calm mind through music, art, nature and even knitting, weaving many more. We would like youth to experience this by unraveling peace using these methods. The Peace Champions initiative aims to make youth, responsible citizens by engaging them in peace building activities. Eventually we look forward to its expansion to a larger body at inter university level.

We are also looking forward to synergizing activities of the organizations and institutions who are working for the cause of Peace.

Upholding gender equality through Gender champions: Parashakti

Gender socialization of both boys and girls begins early and it is important to initiate change processes at a young age to shape attitudes and transform behaviors. Colleges play a major role in this regard, because students spend a large amount of time engaged with peers in such settings. Creating positive social norms in educational institutions that value girls and their rights is important to improve their well-being and achieve long-term and sustainable social change. India is home to around 232 million individuals aged 5-24 years, who account for 19.15% of the country's population. Engaging with these young boys and girls is crucial to help them critically assess notions of masculinity and question prevailing gender inequities. We need to tap into the goodness and sense of justice of these young boys and girls and give them tools for maintaining those gifts as they encounter people and experiences that are different from their own. We need to engage with them to challenge and shift gender norms that contribute to girls and women having less worth, opportunities and decision-making ability than boys and men. In order to promote gender equality, guaranteed by Article 15 of the Indian Constitution, we need to change the mode of interaction at all levels – home, school, workplace and so on. To increase the outreach for creating an environment that fosters equal treatment, MRCPS envisages engagement of Gender Champions in university. SDG-4 aims to ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all. It supports the reduction of disparities and inequities in education, both in terms of access and quality. Being an SGD of critical importance due to its transformative effects on the other SDGs, sustainable development pivots on every child receiving a quality education. With a robust support mechanism, the children are offered the tools to develop to their full potential. Thus, they become prolific individuals prepared to give back to their communities and break the cycle of poverty. Education enables upward socioeconomic mobility. 9.5 Internal Academic Audit

Through IQAC, the university conducts periodic reviews of the academic processes. An internal academic audit system has been developed pertaining to criteria defined by NAAC. The academic review includes the course planning review to assure a quality learning process. Internal academic reviews take into account all other aspects of the academic system like, evaluation, student support system, curriculum design, institutional values etc. A brief categorization and description is followed.

- A). Course Plan review (IQAC) --Once in a Semester
- B). Internal Academic Review (IQAC)- Twice a semester
- C). Student feedback (Feedback Committee) --Twice in a Semester
- D). Attendance review (Attendance review committee) –Thrice in a Semester

A. Course plan review is done once in a semester, before the beginning of classes by IQAC teams or by departmental review committees. The course plans are reviewed. Course Plans include

1. Well defined course outcomes are defined clearly to address the program outcomes.
2. A well defined Course plan which includes mapping of Laboratory and Tutorial objectives to achieve the stated course outcomes and the relevant Bloom's Taxonomy level.
3. A well defined course assessment plan to achieve the stated course outcomes.
4. Teaching pedagogies like active learning, Collaborative learning, and problem based learning are incorporated in the mode of delivery.
5. CO, PO articulation matrix.

B. The Internal Academic Review

The Internal Academic review is conducted by IQAC audit teams twice a semester. The process flow is as follows:

1. The departments are asked to submit quarterly reports of activities conducted as per academic quality assurance criteria listed by NAAC.
2. Quarterly AQAR activity reports are analyzed by IQAC and thus a feedback analysis is shared with respective departments.

3. Half year academic audit and annual academic audits are conducted for all the seven criteria where the departments are supposed to produce all the supporting documents.
4. The departments are asked to propose the action plans after every audit as per audit feedback.
5. Internal Academic review also involves review of course files. Randomly chosen subjects are reviewed for the detailed review of course files which includes course plan, tutorials, assignments, evaluation and analysis for weak and strong students, pedagogy and various other parameters.

C. The student course feedback system includes formative and summative feedback for each course being taught in that semester. This is conducted by the feedback committee. Thus, the feedback is taken twice in a semester.

1. The feedback format of each course ensures that the syllabus coverage, delivery of course material, planning for the course delivery, innovative teaching methodology etc are covered.
2. The formative feedback is taken from all the students for every course being taught, 3-4 weeks after the commencement of classes. This feedback is shared with the respective faculty members.
3. The summative feedback is taken from the students who meet minimum attendance criteria, towards the end of the semester. This feedback also assesses the course outcomes and achievements of course objectives.
4. Student satisfaction survey for generic facilities and curriculum is also conducted.

D. Attendance review of students is done by the attendance review committee thrice a semester.

1. The faculty members teaching individual courses are required to update the attendance everyday on ERP.
2. The strength of students present in each class is monitored on a daily basis.
3. The cumulative attendance of students is checked thrice a semester one week before the start of sessional exams (T1 & T2) and the final exam.
4. The students, who do not meet the minimum attendance criteria, are notified by sending the information telephonically to the parents.
